The ceremonial opening on November 22, marked the beginning of an entirely new emergency healthcare service for Oslo's residents. We are very proud to be part of this landmark project and to continue shaping societal functions. "This will be Europe's largest and most modern emergency clinic," - City Council Leader Eirik Lae Solberg at the opening. In contrast to the former emergency clinic, the new building is larger and tailored for modern emergency operation, making it far more convenient to provide good patient follow-up, as our competent healthcare workers now have everything they need in top modern facilities to assist Oslo's residents when they need it. Patients are well taken care of in new and modern facilities "The new emergency clinic is a symbol of what can be achieved when good forces work together. When we pull in the same direction to create excellent and cohesive healthcare services," said Health Minister Ingrid Kjerkol in her speech. The project has involved planning, user participation, detailed design, and construction on the Aker Hospital site. With successful collaboration processes and the use of Lean methodology, the building was delivered on time and within budget, maintaining a very high quality standard. Tenants in the building include Oslo University Hospital (OUS) and the Health Agency. OUS's areas include, among others, an emergency clinic, radiology department, 7 orthopedic operating rooms, inpatient ward, and outpatient clinic. In addition to the general emergency clinic, Oslo municipality also has an observation post, assault center, SAA, and emergency call center. The welcoming zone is warm and welcoming The design emphasizes adaptation to existing buildings and the green hill on the site. The project consists of two simple volumes placed in the landscape. The building creates a clear boundary between Trondheimsveien and the hospital area, acting as a noise barrier against the heavily trafficked road, while the south-facing facade frames the outdoor area and captures sunlight. Outside, pathways and green areas make up a calm and peaceful atmosphere The metropolitan emergency clinic is a clear, functional, and cohesive project where proximity and function are prioritized. "Our main focus has always been to ensure this building is of the highest possible quality and that people feel well received," says the project's Senior Architect, Anders Doser. The clinic treats most injuries and illnesses that are urgent but not life threatening. A 24 hour pharmacy is located in the same building. Legevakten i Oslo (norsk) When to call 116 117 If your General Practitioner (GP) is not available and the help cannot wait, or you are a foreign national visiting Oslo, you can always call 116 117 for assessment. Examples of when to call: high fever – especially in children moderate breathing difficulties acute illness or severe deterioration acute mental illness suspected complications in pregnancy Waiting time Legevakten treats urgent cases first. The degree of urgency is assessed by a nurse. Are you feeling ill? If you have an assigned General Practitioner (GP), call your GPs office and ask for a same day appointment. If your GP is not available and the help cannot wait, call 116 117 for assessment. If you are injured and suspect fractures, head injuries, sprains or wounds, go directly to Legevakten. Call 113 in case of life threatening emergencies or in need of an ambulance Prices, invoice and payment for health services As a general rule, you must pay a co-payment for treatment at the emergency room. There are different prices for treatment at the general emergency room, the injury emergency room, and the psychiatric emergency room. Acute crisis help and the assault center are free. Pay at the machine when you are finished at the emergency room. If you do not pay at the machine or via SMS within 48 hours, you will receive an invoice with a fee. Remember that children under 16 and those with an exemption card often have to pay expenses that are not approved co-payments, such as materials. Read about co-payments at helsenorge.no Invoice Questions about an invoice from the injury emergency room can be directed at Oslo Universitetssykehus. Contact Oslo Universitetssykehus If you are missing an invoice after visiting the general emergency room, contact Credicare on telephone. Phone number: 22 80 70 70 KAD er et tilbud for pasienter som trenger innleggelse for behandling, observasjon og pleie, og som kan behandles av allmennleger og sykepleiere i primærhelsetjenesten. Vi behandler pasientens avklarte diagnose. Tilbudet erstatter sykehusinnleggelse for pasienter som kan få et like godt tilbud på KAD som på sykehusene. KAD har leger og sykepleiere på vakt hele døgnet. KAD samarbeider tett med bydelene, fastlegene og sykehusene for å gi Oslos befolkning et effektivt akutt allmennhelsetjenestetilbud. Fastlege og allmennlege, legevaktslege, samt lege i akuttmottak, obspost og poliklinikker på sykehus kan legge pasienter direkte inn på KAD etter å ha konferert med vakthavende KAD-lege. Ta gjerne med inhalasjonsmedisiner, øyedråper og kreftmedisiner ved innleggelse på KAD. Besøk til pasienter KAD har besøkstid hver dag, mellom kl. 16:00-18:00. Vi ber besøkende henvende seg i vaktrommet på avdelingen ved ankomst. Innleggelse på KAD er oftest kortvarige (inntil 3 døgn), vi ber om at besøk begrenses med hensyn til den du besøker og medpasienter. Pårværend med symptomer på smittsom sykdom bør ikke komme på besøk i helsenisituasjoner. Dersom du lurer på noe, kan du kontakte avdelingen direkte. Utskrift av pasientjournal og klager Dersom du ønsker å klage på behandling du har fått under oppholdet på KAD, ber vi om at dette skjer skriftlig til oppgitt postadresse. Hvis du har vært hos KAD kan du bestille journalskrift ved å logge inn og fylle ut skjema. Hvis du ikke kan logge deg inn med BankID, kan du fylle ut forespørsel på dette skjemaet. journalskrift (PDF) og sende oss per post.
